

From the Desk of the Editor in Chief

I am very pleased to see the publication of AKMMC journal Volume 4 and issue 2. One more good news is our journal has been indexed in HINARI and we are in the process of indexing this in PUBMED also. Hopefully in near future we shall be able to do this. This issue contains many important and interesting topics on medical science. The editorial focused on one of the important global non-communicable diseases: Hypertension. The theme of this year WHO slogan was "Measure Your Blood Pressure, Reduce Your Risk" is relevant to Bangladesh as it was reported in the editorial that about one-third of the Bangladeshi population didn't measure their blood pressure in life time. So it is appropriate to aware our population about hypertension, how to prevent it, treat it and avoid the risk factors. 4th year Students of Anwer Khan Modern Medical College as part of their academic programme went to an urban area and conducted a health survey which they presented in a seminar and it has been included in our journal as main publication. This will definitely encourage them to pursue more scientific research in future. Other papers are mostly survey on quality of life among coronary artery bypass graft patient, socioeconomic status associated risk factors with stroke patients, correlation between post prandial plasma glucose and HbA1c, reproductive health practice of married women in rural community will be interesting to the readers. Case report on carcinoma middle ear and adult onset stills disease will be interesting too. Review article on journal club and its practices will definitely create interest among organizers of journal club on its theme, how to conduct it etc. Other review article on medicolegal aspects of hurt, injury and wound will also be quite interesting to the readers. College news will draw attention of the readers on different academic and student activities of the college. Overall this issue will hopefully be acceptable to the readers. Any constructive criticism on improvement of our journal will be highly appreciated and well taken. Thanks. Allah Hafez.
