

FROM THE DESK OF EDITOR IN CHIEF

This issue of the publication of our journal has been delayed due to unforeseen circumstances of our nation. The July Revolution caused widespread disruptions, significantly affecting review and our editorial process. Additionally, severe flooding in Bangladesh has further compounded the situation, as many of our team members and contributors were directly impacted and engaged in relief and medical camp. These events have caused delays in communication, logistics, and content review, making it impossible to maintain our regular schedule. We deeply regret this delay and appreciate your understanding as we navigate these challenges. We are working diligently to ensure the publication is released as soon as conditions stabilize. I like to thank all the members of editorial board for their sustained effort for publishing this issue of CeMeC journal.
