

Diabetic neuropathy: What the endocrinologist must know

Thirugnanam U¹

¹Umapathi Thirugnanam, Senior Consultant Neurologist, Singapore National Eye Centre and National Neuroscience Institute, Singapore.

Abstract

A series of illustrative case histories will be used to discuss distal predominant sensory polyneuropathy, autonomic neuropathy, treatment-induced neuropathy of diabetes, pure small-fiber sensory neuropathy, diabetic lumbosacral plexoradiculopathy, and diabetic mononeuropathy. Factors that may influence the progression of diabetic neuropathy beyond glycaemic control, including metabolic syndrome, central obesity, and glycaemic variability, will also be discussed. [J Assoc Clin Endocrinol Diabetol Bangladesh, 2026;5(Suppl 1): S9]

Keywords: Diabetic neuropathy, TIND, Diabetic autonomic neuropathy, Glycemic variability, Metabolic syndrome

Presenting and corresponding author: Dr. Umapathi Thirugnanam, Senior Consultant Neurologist, Singapore National Eye Centre and National Neuroscience Institute, Singapore.

ORCID iD: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-5641-4374>