

From the Desk of Editor-in-Chief

By the grace of The Almighty Allah and because of sincere and active cooperation from all corners we could successfully publish the 1st issue of the Journal of Enam Medical College. With this publication an important objective of Enam Medical College has been achieved. On behalf of the Editorial Board I would like to extend my cordial wishes and gratitude to all the teachers, contributing authors and reviewers and also to office staff and last of all to Chairman of the governing body and Principal, Enam Medical College.

The quality and standard of the 1st issue of the journal have been appreciated by the scientific community, with some suggestions for further improvement. We salute all the suggestions, comments and appreciations. We feel encouraged also. Articles are coming from other institutions after publication of the 1st issue.

The editors of the journal are always working hard without getting tired for any time in spite of their routine business with academic and clinical activities. They are committed to provide the scientific community with a quality product and to uphold the dignity of the institution to a magnificent altitude.

Measures are in progress to launch the Journal of Enam Medical College online to disseminate its contents to a greater number of readers and researchers at home and abroad. Very soon you will find it online (in BanglaJOL and AsiaJOL). In the meantime, we have got the International Standard Serial Number (ISSN) for print version. We expect to get ISSN for electronic version in near future. Steps will be taken for BMDC recognition immediately after publication of the next tissue. We have already contacted BMDC.

Instructions for authors are updated in this issue. Contributing authors are requested to follow it while preparing their manuscripts for the Journal of Enam Medical College.

Constructive criticisms to improve the quality of the journal are always welcomed. Hope to give you more new information in future.

Best wishes.
