

Editorial Note for Volume 25(2)

This issue of IJSS [November 25 (2), 2025] is being brought out as a Special Issue on "Machine Learning with Statistical Applications". We are indeed thankful to the two Guest Editors Professor Md. Aminul Haque, Department of Statistics, University of Rajshahi and Dr. Durba Bhattacharya, Head of Department, Department of Statistics, St. Xavier's College, Kolkata for their sincere efforts in bringing out this issue. The topics focus mainly on Health (6) and Environment (3). There are altogether 11 contributions in this collection. Towards reaching out to potential contributors, the guest editors have focussed on university departments and institutes within Bangladesh. They have been able to identify researchers and topics dealing with or closely related to the theme. So far as the reviewers are concerned, the GEs have reached out to three experts in the USA and to a few of those engaged in applied research in universities/institutes within Bangladesh.

In fine our GEs and the Executive Editor have put in efforts while offering this special issue to our readers at large.

We hope there are enough thought-provoking avenues of further research to promote critical thinking on their part.
